

SPECIAL REPORT

Michigan: a Great Place to do Business

Cybernet Systems Corporation

www.cybernet.com

Cybernet has been committed since its inception to successfully developing technology and bringing its research to market. “Twenty years ago when we started this company from my kitchen table, we were focused on promoting the ability of ingenuity and technical application to amplify what humans can do. It is remarkable to be able to clearly tie Cybernet’s significant contributions to the health, productivity and security of America and the world,” says Heidi Jacobus, chairman and CEO. Cybernet Systems Corporation is an American research and development company that engineers technological solutions to some of the world’s leading defense and medical challenges.

Cybernet's Automated Tactical Ammunition Classification System (ATACS)